

eC^{isf} Connection

ISF Inc has a lot going on throughout the course of the year. There is much we do especially in the field of education, formal, semi-formal, and informal. This is the forum to give both the contributors as well as the learners, to connect. Our dream is to create a link where perpetual inquirers can meet, just like the Greek public square where citizens met to discuss state and life issues, culminating into the university of today.

No insight without understanding

It is true; lazy thinkers do not produce knowledge, which would lead to development. Development has been conceived heuristically as the objective of the detached and disinterested desire to know, and more precisely, as whatever is to be known by intelligent grasp and reasonable affirmation.

ISF's mission is to promote this quest by enabling people participation in educational activities, and to match up their innovative ideas with universities, research institutes, NGOs and other learning and policy organizations, for further development.

The goal is to support the study, production, application and transfer of scientific knowledge in under-served communities and subsequently use these ideas and innovations to improve the general standard of living of the people. ISF Inc is currently active in the USA, Nigeria, Uganda, and Zambia. For more information and to find out how you can participate or partner with us, visit our website at www.isfscience.org

The ancient saying that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy is still relevant today. At ISF, we take education very seriously but we also realize the importance of sports. That is why we do our best to combine them. Learn more...

This is a platform for citizens to participate in a more respectful way, in the debate about issues that affect our communities. There is a debate as to whether ISF Inc (www.isfscience.org) should be more of an activist organization, or whether to have a bias toward the academic discourse. We welcome articles toward this existential question. The deadline is May 15th.
